Faces In The Clouds A

This interpretation of events owes more to the human tendency to find patterns where none exist — such as seeing faces in the clouds — than to a reasoned analysis of our current predicament. The rise of the BRIC economies was not part of a series of supercycles, waxing and waning like a heartbeat across industrial time.

The Clouds true story reveals that Zach had osteosarcoma, the most common type of bone cancer. Like other cancers, its deadliness depends on whether it's a high-grade or low-grade tumor, how responsive it is to chemotherapy, and whether the disease has spread. Osteosarcoma most commonly affects males under the age of 25, and as with Zach, it
