Little Glitter Houses - Home Page

The celebrated American architect Frank Lloyd Wright (1867-1959) designed and built hundreds of houses that had a major influence on the 20th century residential architecture in the United States. Today widely admired for the outstanding harmony of human habitation and the environment, however, not all Wright's houses were positively received

Bing: The Houses Of History A

The earliest houses in Plymouth had thatched roofs, but because they were more likely to catch on fire, the colony eventually passed a law that required new homes be built with plank instead. Most houses had dirt floors, not wooden floors, and each had a prominent fire and chimney area, since this was the only source of heat as well as the only

The houses I make are inspired by collectible and vintage pieces but are never exact copies. Details in my freelance designs also capture all the nostalgia and charm of the pieces from the past. I no longer offer the service of custom making "little glitter house" versions of actual homes, churches, and places of business.

Ice house - Facts and History of Ice Houses

Therefore, a much more plausible explanation, in my opinion, would be that she has forgotten about their history entirely. For example, she says at one point “ there ’ s no one left who calls me EI, ” but we know from the Blue Lions path that Dimitri was one of the people who referred to her by that name. This would seem to eliminate the possibility that she is simply “ closed off, ” and
